OBJECTIVES

The American Society of Ophthalmic Registered Nurses is dedicated to promoting quality comprehensive care to ophthalmic patients and their families. The overall goal is to provide an opportunity for nurses to increase their knowledge of current trends in nursing and ophthalmology and to facilitate interaction and networking.

- Describe two symptoms of patients with low vision.
- Name three low vision aids.
- Discuss two causes of tearing symptoms.
- Name two types of surgical procedures to correct NLDO.
- Describe the advantage of using a laser for making incisions for cataract surgery.
- Identify two uses of Femtosecond laser in cataract surgery
- Describe two tests used to diagnose glaucoma.
- Name two medications used to treat glaucoma.
  Identify one goal of patient education for using glaucoma drops.

Successful completion is identified by the participant's attendance for the entire seminar and submission of evaluation form at the end for the recognition of credits.

The planning committee members have no conflict of interest to disclose. Three presenters have stated a perceived conflict and this was addressed prior to this presentation.
